

Mental Stress Level Indicator Based on Physiological Measurement

Nicolae Cristian PAMPU

Abstract

This paper presents a study and a possible implementation of a Biosignal based Mental Stress Level indicator device. It describes all the biosignals needed and a possible acquisition and processing device, which can deliver useful information in online stress level systems.