Coin Recognition Using SIFT

Szilard HORVATH

Abstract

This paper explains how the SIFT (Scale Invariant Feature Transform) algorithm works and how it can be used for coin recognition. There is a general presentation about how the application works and a detailed one about the extraction of the SIFT keypoint descriptors. The computation of the radius of a coin is also explained. The application was developed using Matlab. A table with the obtained results is also provided.